

HUNDREDS FLOCK TO GETTYSBURG

Battlefield is Objective of Persons From Many Eastern Cities.

SIXTEEN EXTRA CARS

Arrive Here From Elkins, Cumberland, And Hagerstown. No Excursion on Reading Road.

The eyes of hundreds of people from Elkins, Cumberland, Hagerstown, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and smaller eastern cities were focused upon Gettysburg as their objective this morning.

Sunday which brought over one thousand people into town on excursion trains from Philadelphia, Pottstown, and intermediate stations brought also an indication of the vast crowd that was to follow on Monday when Memorial Day would be celebrated in Gettysburg. All day Sunday the streets were thronged not only with pedestrians but with automobiles which minded not the long dirt road detours in their efforts to reach Gettysburg. The hotels did their first big day's business for the year 1920 while the automobile men and hackmen also were busy from morning until evening. So great was the demand for vehicles that even some of the old time two and four horse wagons were brought into use.

This stream of human traffic continued to flow through Gettysburg when Memorial Day dawned, bringing with it beautiful sunshine, a greater drawing card than scores of promises of mammoth parades and distinguished speakers. The morning train due here on the Western Maryland at 8:57 brought several hundred persons from western Adams county, Waynesboro, and Hagerstown while a far greater crowd was deposited in Gettysburg with the arrival of the two extra sections of sixteen cars from Elkins. No excursions were scheduled for Gettysburg on the Philadelphia and Reading but the regular trains brought crowds far above normal.

The crowd spent the morning walking through the streets and stores in anxious anticipation for the actual festivities to commence at 1:30 o'clock.

Governor William C. Sproul, executive of Pennsylvania, will arrive here early in the afternoon from Philadelphia by automobile and will leave for Harrisburg after delivering his speech at the cemetery.

CROWN STATUE OF VIRGIN

Beautiful Ceremony Conducted by Catholic Church Sunday.

Stirring patriotic exercises were held Sunday afternoon in the Catholic cemetery when children of the St. Francis Xavier church strewed flowers over the graves of the more than half-century old veterans. Rev. M. Scanlon, pastor of the Fairfield church, delivered the address in which he paid the highest tribute to the members of the Grand Army and the soldiers of the World War.

The procession, composed of boys and girls dressed in white and carrying great bouquets of flowers, and members of the various church societies, marched from the church to the cemetery singing hymns and patriotic songs. The usual May Day celebration and Memorial Day exercises were conducted.

Upon the return to the church the impressive ceremony of crowning the statue of the Blessed Virgin took place. Marie Frommeyer, gown as the queen of May, wearing a long white veil and train caught at the shoulders, assisted by Hilda Cassatt, Mary Little and Anna Redding, crowned the statue. Father Scanlon delivered the sermon in the church and Father Boyle, pastor of the church, conducted the Vespers and the benediction.

TWO TAVERNS MAN DROPS OVER DEAD

Jacob T. Sherman Owned Store For Thirty Seven Years.

DISCOVERED BY HIS SON

Mrs. Mary Ann Wisotzky Dead After Lingering Illness. Uraemic Poisoning Cause of Death.

Jacob T. Sherman, who conducted the general store at Two Taverns for thirty seven years, was found dead in his barn, Sunday morning, where he had fallen after succumbing to an attack of apoplexy.

A short time previous to the discovery, Mr. Sherman, who was sixty six years old, had left the house to take a short trip to the barn. When he failed to re-appear his only son, Claud, began to investigate and found his father lying in the doorway of the barn.

The death was an entirely unexpected one as when Mr. Sherman arose on Sunday he offered no complaint and appeared in good health.

Jacob Sherman was a widely known man in the vicinity of Two Taverns where he conducted the general store from 1882 until last fall when he sold out and moved to the country near Two Taverns. During his career as a storekeeper he conducted considerable business in Gettysburg and was also postmaster at Two Taverns for many years.

He is survived by his wife and son, Claud, and the following brother and sisters, George Sherman, Littlestown; Mrs. J. L. Hahn, near Two Taverns; Mrs. John W. Spangler, near Two Taverns; Mrs. John Geesey, New Oxford; Mrs. William Collins, Littlestown.

Funeral services at the house Wednesday morning at 10:00 o'clock. Further services in Grace Lutheran Church at Two Taverns.

Interment at Grace Church.

MRS. EMANUEL P. WISOTZKY

Mrs. Mary Ann Wisotzky, wife of Emanuel P. Wisotzky, died at her home on Chambersburg street Sunday evening at six o'clock, after a lingering illness from uraemic poisoning. She was aged 75 years.

Mrs. Wisotzky was formerly Miss Mary Ann McClain, a daughter of the late Jacob and Elizabeth McClain, of Abbotstown. She was born and reared at New Baltimore, this county, and later moved with the family to Gettysburg, and has since been a resident of this place.

She was twice married, her first husband being Christian Hoffman. To this union two children survive, Mrs. Andrew Becker, South Washington street, and Miss Emma Hoffman, at home. About forty years ago she married Emanuel P. Wisotzky, and besides her husband two children survive this union: Miss Anna Wisotzky, at home, and John Wisotzky, of Fairfield. She also leaves three grandchildren and two great grandchildren; two sisters and one brother, Mrs. J. A. Kinne-man, Abbotstown; Mrs. James Gladfelter, West Fairview; and William McClain, Ohio.

Funeral services at nine o'clock Wednesday morning with a requiem high mass in St. Francis Xavier Catholic church, of which she was a member, conducted by Rev. W. F. Boyle. Interment in the Catholic cemetery.

RETURN OF THE HEROIC DEAD

Scene in Arlington National Cemetery at the burial of returned bodies of the boys who went over there to fight for the freedom of the world, and who gave their all that you and your children might live in a better world, a freer world, and a more democratic world. The interment was in charge of the American Legion.

FIRST WORLD WAR HERO TO BE BURIED IN NATIONAL CEMETERY BY LEGION

Military Funeral Tuesday For Soldier of 326th Aero Squadron Who Died in France. Albert Lentz Post Firing Squad.

The first hero of the World War will be buried in the National Cemetery Tuesday afternoon with veterans of the American Legion, Spanish-American War and the Grand Army of the Republic assisting in the military funeral. Arrangements for impressive ceremonies are being made as the result of a telegram received by Captain James Bodley, superintendent of the National Cemetery, from the army authorities at Hoboken saying the body of Private Ward MacNulty, a member of the 326th Aero Squadron of the United States Army, would be shipped to Gettysburg as soon as arrangements could be made for burial. Captain Bodley has replied that Tuesday will be a suitable day for the ceremony.

A firing squad composed of members of the Albert Lentz post of the American Legion will fire three volleys over the grave at the conclusion of the funeral. Members of the Corporal Skelly post of the Grand Army will carry out the ritual as prescribed for military funerals. Thus far no accepted ritual has been adopted by the American Legion for such occasions.

No other information was given concerning the deceased soldier but it is believed by the authorities at the cemetery that his remains are one of many that will be sent here by the government for burial. It is the intention of the Legion post to perform the last rights for all men of the World War who in the future may be buried in the National Cemetery.

The interment of the World War veteran will mark the establishment of the third section in the cemetery for war heroes, as there are several Spanish-American War soldiers buried there with the hundreds of Civil War soldiers.

Hundreds of American dead will be returned from the military zone in France starting next September 15, according to an agreement just reached with the French government. The removal of bodies will be limited to those bodies for which relatives have specifically asked. Returns from inquiries sent out show that fifty nine per cent of those who replied asked that the bodies be brought home. Those which remain in France will be "fittingly and tenderly" cared for by the government in Fields of Honor purchased for that purpose.

WILSON SPEAKS TO THE LEGION

THE WHITE HOUSE WASHINGTON

May, 1920

We approach the annual celebration of Memorial Day with our hearts filled with tender and grateful memories of those who have given their lives for America. The day has by custom been consecrated to the country's heroic dead. It is observed by those who were comrades in arms and who shared with the well-remembered dead the experiences, the hardships, the perils and the glory of war; it is celebrated by the people of the country generally who take it as an annual occasion to renew their loyalty to their country, and to draw fresh inspiration for the tasks of peace from the memory of the sacrifices which were made so freely in times of war. The day is, therefore, filled with both memories of the past and inspirations for the future. It gathers the traditions of what we have done in order that we may have courage for what we have to do. Progress moves like an army; it has its days of training and preparation, its days of conflict and its days of vindication; it has its campfires and its memories. To you who were soldiers of America in the great war I send affectionate greetings. What your arms have done for liberty in France your spirits will continue to do for justice at home. Great experiences make great men and out of the tragedy of this test a new, heroic quality has come to American manhood. You represent it and your country's affection for what you have already done is only equalled by its confident hope of the manly part you are still to play.

LEGION'S FIRST MEMORIAL DAY

Ira Lady Post, Arendtsville, Conducted Exercises at Cemeteries Saturday.

IMPRESSIVE EXERCISES

Grand Army Pleased With Spirit of Young Organization. Many Take Part in Ceremony.

Saturday was the first Memorial Day that the American Legion as a national organization paid tribute to those who made the supreme sacrifice on the battlefields and who gave their best to their country when they were needed for its defense.

Impressive exercises with veterans of the Civil War united with members of the Ira Lady post of the American Legion took place Saturday afternoon at Arendtsville and Biglerville. Like practically everyone of the thousands of veterans' organizations throughout the United States, the Legion took charge of the ceremonies as Father Time has so thinned out the ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic that it falls to the lot of this younger generation to perpetuate the hallowed memories of America's wars.

Veterans of the Civil War in the northern end of the county are highly pleased with the manner in which the members of the Ira Lady post has taken charge of the duties which formerly fell upon them and they believe the patriotic spirit they have fostered will be carried on by the Legion.

Thirty two members of the American Legion were in line at Arendtsville Saturday afternoon and twenty five took part in the ceremonies at Biglerville. Professor Roy Knouse, principal of the Littlestown High School, delivered the Memorial Day oration at Arendtsville. Professor William Wood, of the Vocational School, read Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

Largest crowds ever known attended the ceremonies at the cemeteries in both towns and it seemed the flower strewing celebration and the decoration of the graves of the veterans were more impressive than usual.

Rev. P. O. Shettle, pastor of the Biglerville United Brethren church, delivered the address at the Biglerville cemetery. Rev. S. F. Tholan read Lincoln's speech.

A new feature was added to the occasion at Biglerville when Robert Walter, restaurant proprietor, entertained the soldiers of three wars at an elaborate banquet following the exercises.

AUTHENTIC STORY OF LINCOLN'S MEMORABLE VISIT TO GETTYSBURG

Second Only in Importance to The Battle is The Account of Events During The President's Stay In Town.

DOCUMENT SENT HERE BY SON OF THE EMANCIPATOR

Great Crowds Swarmed Gettysburg When National Cemetery Was Dedicated in 1863. Lincoln in Procession on Horseback. Crowds Besieged Him.

Second only in importance to Gettysburg history to the battle itself is the visit here toward the close of 1863 of Abraham Lincoln, martyred president. How the President left his important duties at Washington to come to Gettysburg to say a few words at the formal dedication of the National Cemetery, how he was received here, and how he thrilled the spectators with his immortal address in the cemetery are choice extracts from American history that each succeeding Memorial Day recalls vividly to the minds of Civil War veterans and older residents of town.

As many legends have been told of the activities of the great president during his short stay in Gettysburg it is quite possible that the Gettysburg citizen has only a vague idea of what events did actually transpire in those notable hours here. To those and to all other persons, therefore the following authentic account of Lincoln's visit to Gettysburg, written by the correspondent of the Century magazine, which appeared in that publication during February, 1894, will be of interest.

This account from the Century magazine was sent to Rev. Joseph B. Baker by Robert Lincoln, son of the late president; when he gracefully declined to read the address of his father here on Memorial Day of this year.

Guest of David Wills
"Mr. David Wills, of Gettysburg, first suggested the creation of a national cemetery on the battlefield, and under Governor Curtin's direction and co-operation he purchased the land for Pennsylvania and other states interested, and superintended the improvements. It had been intended to hold the dedication ceremonies on October 23, 1863, but Edward Everett, who was chosen to deliver the oration, had engagements for that time and at his suggestion the occasion was postponed to November 19.

"On November 2 Mr. Wills wrote the President a formal invitation to take part in the dedication.

"Accompanying this official invitation was also a private note from Mr. Wills which said:

"As the hotels in our town will be crowded and in confusion at the time referred to in the enclosed invitation I write to invite you to stop with me. I hope you will feel it your duty to lay aside pressing business for a day to come here to perform this last sad rite to our brave soldier dead on the 19 inst. Governor Curtin and Honorable Edward Everett will be my guests at that time and if you come you will please join them at my house."

"There is no decisive record of when Mr. Lincoln wrote the first sentences of his proposed address. He probably followed his usual habit in such matters, using great deliberation in arranging his thoughts, and molding his phrases mentally waiting to reduce them to writing until they had taken satisfactory form.

"There was much greater necessity for such precaution in this case because the invitation specified that the address of dedication should be only "a few appropriate remarks." Brevity in speech and writing was one of Lincoln's marked characteristics; but in this instance there existed two other motives calculated to strongly support his natural inclination. One was that Mr. Everett would be quite certain to make a long address; the other, the want of opportunity, even to think leisurely about what he might decide to say.

Cabinet Members Along
"Three members of the Cabinet—Mr. Seward, secretary of state, Mr. Usher, secretary of the interior, and Mr. Blair, postmaster general—accompanied the president, as did the French minister, M. Mercier, the Italian M. Bertinatti and several legation secretaries and attaches. Mr. Lincoln also had with him his private secretary, Mr. Nicolay and his assistant private secretary, Colonel John Hay. Captain H. A. Wise, of the Navy, and Mrs. Wise, daughter of Edward Everett, were also of the party; likewise a number of newspaper correspondents from Washington and a military guard of honor to take part in the Gettysburg procession. Other parties of military officers joined the train on the way.

"No accident nor delay occurred and the party arrived in Gettysburg about nightfall. According to invitation Mr. Lincoln went to the house of Mr. Wills while the members of the Cabinet and other distinguished persons of his party were entertained elsewhere.

Town Filled With People
"Except during its days of battle the little town of Gettysburg had never been so full of people. After the usual supper hour the streets literally swarmed with visitors and the stirring music of regimental bands and patriotic glee clubs sounded in many directions. With material so abundant and enthusiasm so plentiful a serenading party soon organized itself upon prominent personages for impromptu speeches and of course the President could not escape.

"The crowd persisted in calling him out but Mr. Lincoln showed himself only long enough to utter the few commonplace excuses which politeness required. He said:

Begs to Be Excused
"I appear before you fellow citizens merely to thank you for this compliment. The inference is a very fair one that you would hear me for a little while at least were I to commence to make a speech. I do not appear before you for the purpose of doing so and for several substantial reasons. The most substantial of these is that I have no speech to make. In my position it is somewhat important that I should not say any foolish things. It very often happens that the only way to help it is to say nothing at all. Believing that is my present condition this evening I must beg of you to excuse me from addressing you further."

"The article goes on to say in describing preparations for the ceremony, that at about 10 o'clock the president issued from Mr. Wills' house attired in black with white gauntlets upon his hands; that as soon as he had mounted he was besieged with eager crowds to shake hands with him and that the marshals had some difficulty in inducing the people to desist and allow him to sit in peace upon his horse. Secretaries Seward, Blair, and Usher also mounted horses, as did others of the official retinue.

Military Body Guard
"The procession, however, finally moved and at about 11 o'clock the presidential party reached the platform. Mr. Everett, the orator of the day, arrived fully half an hour later and there was still further waiting before the military bodies and civic spectators could be properly arranged and stationed. It was therefore fully noon before Mr. Everett began his address; after which for two hours he held the assembled multitude in rapt attention with his eloquent description and argument, his polished diction, his carefully studied and practiced delivery.

Trumpet Peal to Nation
"When he concluded and the band performed the usual musical interlude, President Lincoln rose to fill the part assigned him in the program. It was entirely natural for every one to expect that this would consist of a few perfunctory words, the mere formality of an official dedication. There is every probability that the assemblage regarded Mr. Everett as the mouthpiece, the organ of expression of the thought and feeling of the hour, and took it for granted that Mr. Lincoln was a mere official figurehead, the culminating decoration, so to speak, of the elaborately planned pageant of the day. They were therefore totally unprepared for what they heard and could not immediately realize that his words and not those of the carefully selected orator were to carry the concentrated thought of the occasion like a trumpet peal to the farthest posterity."

SOLDIER BONUS PASSED BY HOUSE

Relief For Ex-Service Men Adopted by Vote of 289 to 92.

IS SENT TO THE SENATE

Forty Republicans Against the Fifty Two Democrats. Party Lines Obliterated.

Washington, D. C., May 31.—The soldier relief was passed Saturday by the House, 289 to 92, and sent to the Senate.

Under the program that brought the final showdown, a two-thirds vote in support of the measure was necessary for its passage and it was obtained after a fight, during which test votes seemed to indicate defeat of the measure possible at the outset.

Results of Three Test Votes

While only the direct vote on the bill was possible under the suspension program, it was preceded by three test votes which showed supporters of the measure gradually gaining strength.

The first vote of 192 to 189, coming on a parliamentary question, indicated that advocates of the bill were short by 64 votes of the two-thirds majority, while the second, by which the suspension program was adopted, 200 to 165, showed they lacked only 37 votes.

The third test was on applying the suspension program to the bill itself, which was carried, 175 to 91, or two less than the required number for passage.

Debate on Measure Heated

Between roll calls the debate was heated. The Democrats, aided by a minority of the Republicans, attacked the "gag rule" of the majority advocates of the suspension program, declared a vote against it was a vote against the bill itself, and gradually they were down the opposition, the final vote recording 40 Republicans and 52 Democrats in the negative.

Supporters of the measure declared that the bill was just to the ex-service men for losses they suffered during the war, but its opponents denounced it as "a political trick" to the soldier vote through an attempt "to commercialize patriotism."

Protesting against what he called a "gag rule," Mr. Mann declared that if the Republicans could not bring up the legislation so as to permit amendment, which was impossible under suspension they then "acknowledged impotency and incapacity."

Mr. Clark denounced the suspension as "the most outrageous maneuver ever made in the House," adding that "the statement that Democrats are against the soldiers legislation is a lie." All that was desired, he said, was opportunity to amend the bill's taxing provisions.

Campbell Scores Opposition

"The time has come to unmask," replied Mr. Campbell, declaring that votes against the suspension program were votes against the soldier bill. Interrupting him, some Democrats protested that he was "misrepresenting" their attitude.

Arguing that the relief for the ex-service men was just, Mr. Campbell declared that some Democrats "oppose it because 375,000 colored boys will come under it," while the opposition of some other members of the House, who were not specified, was said to be to "taxing certain gamblers in Wall street."

While the people in many parts of Adams county were paying tribute to the memory of their dead on Saturday afternoon, evening and Sunday, the colored populace of Gettysburg were not forgetting the deeds of Joseph Williams, Buffalo Division fighter, who fell during the World War, and other heroes of the Spanish-American and Civil wars.

Led by the Richard Thomas band the parade of the colored citizens proceeded from the A. M. E. Zion church to the cemetery near the Annapolis M. Wagon hospital, Sunday afternoon, where Rev. E. D. Venture, Methodist-Episcopal minister, delivered the memorial address.

NEW CLASS GUESTS OF THE ALUMNI

High School Association Adopts New Constitution. Annual Reception.

Nearly one hundred alumni of the Gettysburg High School took part in the annual reception given by the Alumni Association to the graduating class held in Glatfelter Hall Saturday night. It marked the close of a busy week for the members of the class of 1920.

At the business meeting held before the dancing began it was decided to adopt the new constitution by which those persons, who completed the high school course before the time diplomas were issued, are permitted to become members of the association. Anyone who finished the course as prescribed previous to the issuance of diplomas will now be received into the organization. The question was brought to the attention of the association at their meeting last year and favorably discussed.

The following officers were elected: president, Charles K. Miller, vice president, Horace Armer; secretary, Henrietta Hersh; treasurer, Percy Miller.

The program which was followed with refreshments consisted of:

Address of welcome to the class of 1920, Russell Stouffer; response for the class, Horace Armer; reading, Miss Elsie Garlach; reading, Miss Lily Dougherty; solo, Mrs. Royal Zinn, with violin accompaniment by Rex Gilbert; address, I. L. Taylor.

DICKINSON WINS AGAIN

Dickinson defeated Gettysburg for the second time this season by a score of 7 to 4. The loose playing of the Gettysburg infield, with two wild pitches by Wise, gave Dickinson five runs in the fourth inning, enough to win. Lowe, with a home run, and Plowman, Redcay and Yarrison with three base hits, led the hitting.

Gettysburg scored one in the fourth with two clean hits. Dickinson scored five in this inning on two passed balls and hits by Weaver and Suender. Gettysburg scored two in the sixth on an error and two three-base hits. Dickinson's two final runs were scored in the seventh on a home run by Lowe and two errors of the Gettysburg infield. Gettysburg earned a run in the ninth on two safe hits.

CAUSES OF HIGH PRICES REMAIN

Federal Reserve Board Sees But Little General Relief.

ANALYZE MAY BUSINESS

No Change in Underlying Conditions. Only Slight Increase in Production.

Washington, May 31.—Despite recent reductions in prices, little relief from the general reign of high prices is seen by the Federal Reserve Board in its analysis of May business conditions, made public last night. The board expressed the view that there has been no change in the underlying conditions responsible for the high cost of living.

Asserting that while "store sales" had a tendency to lower prices bears witness to the presence of "disturbing factors," which suggest the advent of wide alteration in price levels, the board declared it cannot accept the situation as a whole for its face value. The explanation is added that there has been only a slight increase in production and there is no greater disposition on the part of the general public to economize and invest than had ruled heretofore.

"The changes that have taken place, therefore," the board's analysis says, "cannot be looked upon as indicating a modification of underlying conditions. They may, however, afford a basis for changes in business relationships that may broaden into more far-reaching alteration of the essential price structure."

The Freight Jam

Business in every section of the country has suffered considerably from the freight jam which has prevented normal movement of products to markets. Effects of the tie-up are noticed in the agricultural districts as much as the industrial areas, and that farmers are not the smallest class which has sought more bank help in the way of credit as a result.

Results of the board's action in the direction of restricted loans already have begun to be evident, according to reports of the various reserve banks. In addition to a general reduction in the value as well as volume of securities traded in the financial centers, there has been a general revision of interest rates affecting both commercial paper and call money, it is stated.

The labor situation during the month has been one of the outstanding elements of "doubt and difficulty" and is one of the larger problems with which the country is expected to have to deal with the rest of the summer. In addition to intense shortage of labor on farms and at other points of primary production, sporadic strikes have occurred in many lines of manufacturing, notably the textile industry, indicating, in the board's view, continued unrest.

Wages Fall Behind

"Wages apparently have fallen behind the advance in prices and the cost of living," the statement continues. "The movement of labor from farm to city is continuing. Various demands for higher wages have been taken under advisement for the purpose of bringing about compromise adjustments. General complaint of low efficiency or small output per unit of labor is prevalent and the difficulty of getting skilled labor in some of the more highly developed lines of manufacture is now very considerable."

FRANCE HONORS AMERICAN DEAD

Memorial Day is Observed Throughout Country. Every Grave Decorated.

Paris, May 31.—America's war dead in Europe were eulogized and their graves in all parts of France were decorated Saturday, the second memorial day since the close of the great struggle. American flags floated in the breeze over the resting places of more than 70,000 soldiers, and Allies organization joined the Americans in France in services in their memory, while throughout the republic detachments of horizon-blue clad poilus acted as guards of honor at the cemeteries where lie those who fought beside them on the field of battle.

The American Legion, with the Army and Navy patriotic societies, co-operated with the newly formed memorial day committee headed by Ambassador Wallace to decorate the little mounds in 497 burying places scattered along the battle front from the channel to Switzerland and from the Rhine to the Atlantic. At 125 places there were single graves of American service men, but memorial day services were conducted over each of these lone graves, some of which are in Southern Italy and others in Spain. The French and representatives of other of the Allies took part in the ceremonies virtually everywhere, while Marshal Petain, the French commander-in-chief, and other men of prominence from the French army and navy and civil life, delivered addresses.

Tributes of French Women

In some places the French women of the locality made the day almost one of their own, bringing tokens of their remembrance to place on the graves of the youths who fought beside their boys in the dark days of two years ago. In all the Catholic churches in Paris, in the Jewish synagogues and in the American church there were religious observances of America's day of tribute to her dead, and in the provinces there were numberless local ceremonies organized by the parish priests or the population generally.

THE BATTLE IS ON--and Waging Strong

10 per cent to 25 per cent off

Ladies' Coats and Suits

Scores and scores of people have already taken advantage of this reduction.

10 per cent to 20 per cent off

Men's and Boys' Suits.

We invite you to join forces with us in this campaign waged on the H. C. of L. by taking advantage of this opportunity.

The announcement which previously appeared in this paper brought to our store many judicious buyers who have confidence in our clothes. It will be of interest to you to know that the wholesale cost of clothing has not been lowered and this reduction is not due to a decline in the wholesale cost.

You may ask what are present conditions in regard to wool. The high price of clothing has concentrated the demand on goods of quality. All merchandise is so high that those that seem cheapest are those of better grades. Therefore Merino wools are the wools in greatest demand, and at their sale both in London and America, this grade of wools were eagerly snapped up at advanced prices. And it must be born in mind that most of these wools were bought for use in merchandise for next spring, because those required for this fall's clothing had already been provided. It is our opinion that the price of clothing will not come down until a point of over production is reached and we cannot see how that point can be reached during the year 1920.

This campaign as previously announced is a sincere effort to set the manufacturer an example and at the same time offer our customers a bona fide cash saving that will run into thousands of dollars. It is to your advantage, read on.

Printzess Coats and Suits for Ladies

Superiority of tailoring and excellence of materials will be apparent to you in each of the new Printzess suits. Misses models have been especially created to bring joy to the heart of women, both young in years and spirit. So smart are the models in their tailored simplicity, that Fashion is most wise in her decree that coats and suits of this character are correct for all occasions.

After Long Months of Rising Prices it is a Relief to Find Many Things at this Store Much Under Price

In these values in TAILORED SUITS, COATS, SEPARATE SKIRTS and WAISTS, as well as odds and ends all through the sized stock of Children's goods & c., we are offering values seldom found this early in the wearing season, for instance--

18 SUITS of Tricotine, Mannish Serge, Silvertone &c. were $67.50 to $87.50, new this spring season, all sizes and wanted colors in the lot—Your choice $50.00.

20 SUITS of Tricotine, Serges &c., some plain tailored, others braid trimmed—all up to the minute in style were $55.00 to $65.00—Now $42.50 & $47.50.

Dozens of others with a lesser price range at from $19.75 to $32.50—were at least 1-3 more—many in sport styles of Jersey or Cloth Mixtures—very swagger and yet entirely practical.

ABOUT 50 SUITS of former seasons styles—little change in most instances from this season—in a variety of fabrics and colors—at an average of HALF PRICE.

VERY SPECIAL COAT VALUES—Many of them are very late styles—embracing the very comfortable and practical Polo Cloth Coat in Sport styles, very engaging in cut. Also the longer length coats, very beautiful and practical—in various colors—many of them reduced a full 1-4—Junior Misses' Coats for small women, in the wanted cloths and in great variety of this seasons styles, which have come into our stock in the past two weeks and which were bought from a manufacturers stock clean up and are much under price.

CHILDREN'S COATS for all ages, and at all prices—less than regular.

SILK FROCKS—We never had such business as we have had during the month of May, and were it not for the fact that older orders have been filled recently we would not have this splendid assortment to show now. TAFFETAS, puffed, tuniced, ruffled and adorned in various ways. CREPE DE CHINES, various cuts and trimmings, some embroidered in wool. Wonderful creations in GEORGETTES. Also WOOL DRESSES in TRICOTINES & SERGES & JERSEYS—just the things for cool mornings and evenings. Almost all of them repriced lower for this sale.

WASH DRESSES OR GOWNS—more properly speaking—in VOILES & CREPE LE GERE—the most handsome creations of the season, both in the printed fabrics in the gayest of colors and designs, as well as the greatest variety of styles; most of them pretty and rich enough to wear on any occasion. Very reasonably priced.

WHITE DRESSES OF VOILES, DOTTED & PLAIN SWISSES, ORGANDIES and COTTON CHIFFONS for the June wedding or any other dressy occasion—handsome styles as to cut and trimming of fine laces and ribbons. GINGHAM and other COTTON DRESSES more moderately priced in a splendid variety—only one or two of a style—going fast—which shows the wisdom of early choosing.

Dresses FOR JUNIORS, INTERMEDIATE sizes for the Miss—and CHILDREN'S WASH DRESSES of every character. Many in broken lots under our regular prices—and all at less than peak prices of the manufacturer.

WAISTS—SILK & LINGERIE

WAISTS—The recent discount deduction sale has demoralized the stock as to sizes and the odds and ends of assortments have been remarked for quick selling. A wonderful array of styles but not all sizes in any one style—but still all sizes in the sale.

BROKEN LOTS IN EVERYTHING READY TO WEAR—AND ALL OVER THE STORE. HAVEN'T THE SPACE TO SPEAK OF WOOL, SILK & WASH SKIRTS—ALL REDUCED IN PRICE. "NEVER-SHRINK" WASH SKIRTS—MADE FROM FABRICS PRICES BASED ON 1919 MILL PRICES.
